Q8 We want to continue to find new and engaging ways to give residents a genuine opportunity to offer informed views on future budget proposals, in line with the Haringey Deal. Please let us know any suggestions you have for how we can do this in the future.

Basically, very few people have even heard of the Haringey Deal ! Haringey certainly needs a more effective voluntary sector as in some of our neighbouring boroughs.
Knock on peoples door and talk with them, get to know the community, support people who are struggling instead of making them the problem
Perhaps spend (more) time in the libraries talking to users of the service.
Don't hold an extermely important consultation over xmas and new year when loads of people will be away or otherwise engaged.
Longer lead time for consultations. Christmas is a very busy time of year for most people. To open this consultation in December juts before Christmas feels wrong as most people are busy. You might think this was deliberate...? You should make this consultation open for a longer time. Make this consultations binding and democratic rather than ignoring residents.
Bring local swimming pools in-house stop outsourcing to private companies Treat your residents with dignity would be a brilliant start. The council has always been shocking, but severely deteriorated in recent years.
Fix the parking app. Get better lawyers. Change the HMO rules to free up more housing from small landlords.
more detailed info about what is spent in easy to read language, not bureaucratic jargon. (BTW I have a PHD!)
You need to give the community more powers as we all feel you don’t listen and make it really difficult to oppose anything, many feel that LAs are run by corrupt people
More physical surveys, in person stalls, and social media
I think residents should be emailed about these things for greater interaction.
You know who is on the voter's list. Send them all these surveys via email. Don't print paper stuff. It's so small I need my specs to see it.
The website needs to make it much easier for residents to review and comment on proposals. When I went to the main council site, there was a banner image and link encouraging residents to have their say ("Help shape council spending next year"). But when I clicked on that banner image, it took me to a council press release ("Council vows to protect social care services despite major underfunding"), with no link to this survey.
The date between the relase of the consultation and the deadline is way too short, which is unfair for the public who may get access to the information late.
Open meetings at local libraries.
ok
Reduce expending, cut benefits. only protect and fund key services for the members of the borough average working people are already struggling with the cost of living crysis and most of services provided by the council are either obsolete or not worth what the taxpayer its obliged to pay.
None
In my experience, any consultations that Haringey offer are useless as the decisions have already been made.
put out your consultation calls at more convenient times (not just before the Christmas break) and promote the consultation more widely. I have been directly emailed about other consultations, yet not this one, which feels very important. The summary document for this consultation is not easily readable or understandable with lots of small text.
You need to allow more than 14 days notice of a consultation and provide notice by means of writtencommunication for those without email or internet connection

Appendix 8

Q8 We want to continue to find new and engaging ways to give residents a genuine opportunity to offer informed views on future budget proposals, in line with the Haringey Deal. Please let us know any suggestions you have for how we can do this in the future.

Clear and easy to understand surveys will help. Proposed budget changes should be sent out as a document/link via the Haringey website to those registered and residents should be consulted. Details about large projects should be clear - everyone is asking about the housing development in the centre of Crouch End. How much it was sold for, whether the community garden at the front is satisfactory, who were the planning team on this. Information like this should be freely available.
Don’t expect residents to use Facebook and Twitter. Put a link to surveys like these on the first page of the council website so they are easily found.
Make consultations easy read. Highlight in all publicity about it the areas it covers rather than just titling it 'budget consultation '. Reach out to residents' groups and community groups. Avoid consulting over the Christmas period and avoid deadlines in early January.
If not done so already, when residents interact with Haringey Council online, could they be given the option to opt in to receive alerts about consultations and other opportunities for participation when they happen? I was forwarded this information by a local group and would not have known about it otherwise
N/a
Create an app?
Inform residents via local press, electronic newsletters etc whenever budget proposals are to be made, and do not slip them in quietly before busy holiday periods.
Inform everyone - I only found out about this by chance
No you don't. You want to know how you can grab more money and then waste it under the pretence that you are a caring council!
There was a very short consultation time for this, over Christmas. Also please to consider things with a longer horizon - what was the point in investing hundreds of thousands of pounds in a renovation project if the building itself is not open to readers in a usable way.
give us longer to understand the proposals
Ask local entrepreneurs to contribute to your process with a new way of thinking.
None
Provide a summary of long documents like budget proposals and provide more specific information. This consultation document is long and quite vague
Any consultation in the past that I have engaged in has been heavily skewed towards the Council's preferred position. (I can quote chapter and verse. This has been noted by other local residents.) I doubt that any truly democratic consultation could be undertaken by Haringey Council. There is a decided democratic deficit in this borough.
Yes
none
Make sure that the Carers Forum remains in its present form, with carers able to present their views, unhampered..
More consultation with local community groups.
You do nothing to make proposals clear and you do not advertise consultations to people in any real fashion. You should do a clear, bullet pointed outline of these changes and what they mean in clear, simple language, and share it on social media, etc. Instead, I'm sifting through intimidating looking PDFs and entering paragraphs into one-line forms. And stop relying on digital everything. Many people don't spend all day on twitter. Send letters, have inperson consultations (that you actually advertise) and have action groups.
Communication, communication, communication.
You ignore all consultations anyway. Show us you actually take any notice of existing consultations first. Cut BS, save money

Appendix 8

Q8 We want to continue to find new and engaging ways to give residents a genuine opportunity to offer informed views on future budget proposals, in line with the Haringey Deal. Please let us know any suggestions you have for how we can do this in the future.

Help residents find consultations more easily. Honestly, the council has done a better job of this recently with lamppost posters etc, but there's still work to do to stop us being overridden by a few well informed posh people in muswell hill.
Provide more access to proposals and, if on the website, at least the right link
Forms available in public libraries
N/A
My democracy option is above. I'm sure that having offered it, you will ignore it.
I wasn't aware of this library cut until a liberal councillor emailed me. Where did you publicise it? I am on next door, FB and received Haringey news magazine but had not seen this proposal to cut library funding
Advertise these consultations earlier and more widely to give residents a chance to comment.
I'm not informed enough. But I am confident that it is the council's job to foster community relationships.
Allow users to sign-up to email newsletters.
More information to all
Put more budget information in Haringey People
This 'engagement' has been lamentable, with last year's budget shown above, not this years!
The hard-copy consultation document and survey form are virtually unreadable as the type is minute- have you thought about how to make sure everyone can read the basic information?
Ask Labour councillors to communicate directly with residents they represent.
Not sure
Maybe show us the budget and have a app where people can cast a vote by pressing buttons to see where the money should be spent.
I only found out about this because of a somewhat hyperbolic email from the Haringey Lib Dems. I think this could be publicised better
Plenty of Questionnaires for starters
This consultation was very difficult to access and respond to. The way that documents are presented and the set up of the form are not at all easy to use, even for someone with a high level of IT literacy.
Make budget proposals more widely publicised
LINK THE BUDGET PROPOSALS TO THE CONSULTATION FORMS!
The numbers need human explanation - budget consultation events, and you may need to incentivise/ pay people as most people really don't want to get into the details
Spread the news widely so people have the chance to respond.
None
Share more information about the budget.
Nil
We pay our council taxes to ensure the Council have finance experts in their senior management. While external consultation is key, it is the internal operations at the council that are crucial to saving money. A lot of money is spent on vague and rather pointless consultation, which often feels like nothing more than a box ticking exercise. What we need is expert delivery from our council, and exceptional internal communications so everyone understands the challenges faced across the borough.
Publicise consultations in good time (not during extended public holidays). Ensure that sufficient explanation of abbreviations and jargon is provided. And be explicit in what the implications of budget proposals could be in specific instances. The documents in this case are far too generalised and provide no basis for informed responses.

N/a
I would be keen for an opportunity to come in to your offices to personally argue against these cuts.
I am very grateful to the people that handed out leaflets and spoke to me in person in the library, making me aware of the budget cuts and encouraging me to express my opinion. (FORE)
Have people answering phonesplease. Run some events please. I can do IT- but many haven't the access, including a lot of Haringey's pensioners.
I am not sure
Cut you chief executive's salary in half!
Your supporting documentation is laden with local government jargon that will be difficult for many (?most) people to understand. In my view more effort should be made to use simple language and to explain complex terminology. More use could be made audio-visual aids.
Give more time for consultations and avoid holiday periods for this. There will be fewer responses to this one since it happened across the new year holiday period
Sorry no comment
Send physical consultation forms to homes
Better repairs
More publicity so that more people know about the consultations
Do your job properly, aim for effiiciency and keep the public informed.
Earnest consultation where views are taken on board. Not merely information and tinkering at the edges after the real decisions have been made
Keep residents informed of future budget proposals. I have only found out about the current proposals by chance.
For younger and users with access needs - ask questions directly in person to those in the libraries.
This sort of consultation is good.
n/a
N/a
Make proposals and feedback opportunities more widely publicised to ensure local residents are aware and can respond (eg advertise on bus stops). Avoid putting out proposals and consultations directly before holiday periods as with this one, thus significantly reducing the time that stakeholders eg libraries have to make their users aware.
More time to engage with your dialogue
Just stop ripping off Haringey residents with these awful cuts to essential services.
Feels very open ended and like you're out of ideas… I appreciate the free opportunity to comment but it might be nice to have the option of ranking different options and giving reasons for it. I don't envy you having to come up with ways to cut budgets given what the tories have done. But when we close libraries we become them!
Keep libraries as they are
Town Hall Meetings!
Promote info on how things are going give interim updates - tell us about what isn't going so well. The newsletter has lots of 'good news' and none of the difficult stuff. We're aware there are many challenges too, we're not daft. How about keeping it a bit more real?!
Experimenting with a Citizens Assembly would be very cool
Let residents vote on the budget

Appendix 8

Q8 We want to continue to find new and engaging ways to give residents a genuine opportunity to offer informed views on future budget proposals, in line with the Haringey Deal. Please let us know any suggestions you have for how we can do this in the future.

Keep libraries as a meeting place for writing and book clubs, so that thosecwho read well, can learn another language anemdcteaxh each other. Journslling and art groups should help the council to flourish
I welcome the idea of engaging with residents on matters such as this and I'm sure it is not easy to do, but it needs to be easier and more user friendly.endly
I think it's overwhelming for people who have no expertise in this area to review and understand budgets and proposals. Perhaps more needs to be done to explain the plans to key groups - and get their help in gaining feedback from those who may be affected. There's a lot of documents to read and it will put people off
" genuine opportunity to offer informed views on future budget proposals " - this can only work if residents have access to appropriate information.
Publicise it more, I came across it just by chance. Maybe in the Haringey People magazine, maybe in local schools and community groups. And give more time to raise awareness and to respond to the Consultation.
You need to use larger print. A lot of retired people could be involved in voluntary work.
Better communication about such proposals and a decent consultation period, especially over public holidays. This one seems to have been almost buried over Christmas, which looks deliberate. I was only made aware of this by library staff - ironic in view of the plans to cut library services.
a simplified document that can be discussed with residents in localities better advertising and longer timeframes on consultations such as this one
I only found out about being able to review this budget from a neighbour who sent a link. As I know as a resident the council has my email I think it could at least inform us in this way.
Both libraries in my area are currently shut for redevelopment, and I hope will reopen and form a cohesive hub for the community – Muswell Hill and Highgate libraries are good focal points for informing residents
Use the libraries better to display information, with regular drop-in informal community forum sessions, & ask larger supermarkets & shopping centres to allow promotional material & even booths with leaflets & paid staff to receive comments & ideas.
They need to be much more people friendly with a longer lead time.
Send each resident your budget proposals in the post.
Put up posters in local parks and libraries
None
Ok
I'd attend a full detailed budget overview and hope suggested cuts go to a vocal residents group. Let the locals have a hand in their future, rather than comment on it.
Please can we have a longer consultation period with more notice.
n/a
I don't have any suggestions.
Hold Town Halls, and advertise them well.
None
Do the Council really listen to the residents?
Hold open days to keep residents involved
Publicise a little more, maybe poster with weblink in a few shops. Replace the graphic or title on the booklets to make it easier to understand the impact, e.g. 'We are changing how we spend the council budget. Have your say.' A big picture of a pound sign doesn't convey much.

Q8 We want to continue to find new and engaging ways to give residents a genuine opportunity to offer informed views on future budget proposals, in line with the Haringey Deal. Please let us know any suggestions you have for how we can do this in the future.

It is great that you have consulted and provided a summary of cuts and capital spend. It is a lot to take in - and I imagine you'll get single interest responses in your survey, rather than holistic feedback. Not sure I have an answer but starting point is defining a problem.
Key is to give enough time. One month over a holiday period is not sufficient
A longer consultation period
We need a longer and more open consultation process.
Edit your consultation document properly (see previous answer). Present your proposals in a way that people unfamiliar with council finance can understand them easily. Ask people about each proposal as they read them rather than expecting people to absorb the whole document and remember what they did and didn't like.
You can start with a longer consultation period and a budget proposal that is genuinely widely advertised using all Council channels (social, email, leaflets, borough newsletters, public discussions) to give residents a genuine opportunity to understand the nature of the challenges and proposals, and enough time to respond. A month over the Christmas break with no to hardly any public awareness of the budget and the consultation really suggests the exact opposite approach.
Emailing residents with consultations and decisions. Providing visual information in libraries in the form of computer screens.
A longer consultation period and more visibility about future budget proposals to all more people the chance to respond.
Keep in touch with Ladder Community Safety Partnership
Give a longer consultation period for proposals like these and not just over Christmas do not spend on paper advertising, email updates is preferable
See point 7 above.
I only found out about the proposals via word of mouth. A longer consultation period with more proactive communications would help target those who may have views.
Can there be more time and wider advertising of changes
Short Focus groups/surveys in community venues- libraries, leisure centres, schools, community markets) street Vox pops, web pop-ups eg on Council tax and parking pages
N/A
Not issue over Christmas period. Send to people affected such as schools.
In the annual consultation, provide a review of budget vs. actual spend for the last full year and for the first 9 months of the year in progress
This doesn't feel like an engagement with residents. It's too technical. I don't really know how to engage with it
A longer consultation period with more notice before library hours are cut.
None
I found out about this late although I have signed up for information.
Being more specific with your 'consultations'. This is to vague to make a difference in listening to the community
I have no idea how you decided to consult on this but I randomly found out about it
A longer consultation, with more notice, and better communication about the effects of budget changes, especially harmful cuts like these.
The consultation must have been communicated widely and limited people received it. This must improve.

Appendix 8

Q8 We want to continue to find new and engaging ways to give residents a genuine opportunity to offer informed views on future budget proposals, in line with the Haringey Deal. Please let us know any suggestions you have for how we can do this in the future.

Publicise your budget proposals well in advance, and allow much more time for a response. One month, with the Christmas holiday taking up two weeks of that, is inadequate and possibly illegal.
A longer consultation period in future which does not go over the christmas and new year period.
Use community hubs such as living under on sun or engine room, housing groups such as ferry lane, drs
Sending paper reviews to people's homes, more emails and signage/advertisement on major roads
Give more time to respond. Do not have a budget consultation over the Xmas period. Advertise the consultation more widely.
Please give people more time to answer these serveys and announce them in a more advanced fashion.
Hold focus groups at the library. Collect email addresses of those who respond to consultations and request further consultation.
N/A
Make these online forms more accessible!
Keep doing these surveys but please increase awareness about them
N/a
Hold focus groups at the library. Collect email addresses of those who respond to consultations and request further consultation.
Household surveys. Public meetings run by councillors
You could start by replying to emails and responding to messages sent via your website
A wider distribution of this type of consultation is necessary . I only knew of this consultation because a member of the community gave me the information in the Library.
Use the local newspaper quarterly to publish targets and progress as a dashboard; create a live dashboard on the council website; hold quarterly roadshows and rotate around the wards. Introduce a session at schools and colleges.
Improving communication and increasing awareness about budget proposals is crucial. To enhance resident engagement, consider implementing strategies such as advance notice, conducting informational campaigns through various channels and social media, hosting community workshops, spread awareness about online platforms and surveys so more people can participate and have their say.
Please make consultations like this more public and more time to respond
Be transparent, clear about the proposals and give more notice
Re engagement in future I think a longer consultation period would be fairer . I have talked to parents at my granddaughters ' school and to people at our local church who knew nothing about the proposed swingeing cuts to our Libraries . I suspect as this consultation has happened over the Christmas period and has been of short duration , and not widely publicised these are the reasons .I would also add that the formatting of this survey was very poor and made completion difficult. Also the paper questionnaire and online survey were different which again made completion a problem.
Make your materials shorter and easier to read.
Provide comparitive figures for the previous year so can some sense of the likely impact of proposed cuts
Please publicise the proposed changes for each provision, with access to feed back, at the point/location where each service is accessed - eg at the local library, so the users of each service know how that particular provision will be affected without having to get online, and read through ALL the proposals: this is off-putting, and if you really want to hear from residents, you need to meet them at the points where they use your services. So: more notice, a clearer consultation, and easier portals for comment and feedback.

Use digital services to email
You should have informed residents of this by email. You have our emails for council tax bills etc. I found out about this through friends. This should have been made known to us by the council! A summary sheet of cuts and benefits would have been useful.
You could gather a support or steering group fromThe community to get some of the budget ideas underway
Come down and discuss with us at the library.
Not via paper (i.e. not via the wasteful, fact-light corporate PR magazine). Online. Like this survey. Thank you for your attention.
Focus groups using Internet such as zoom or others
I am part of the 1,000 membership of Crouch End and District u3a. Most members comen from Haringey though not all. It should be possible to engage us, mainly over 55s, in consultations as part of our on-going communications and meetings. Our constitution states we are a non-political and non-partisan organisation. This would have to agreed by our Executive Committee and the membership.
Do not do this over Christmas or holiday periods when residents may be traveling and allow for a longer consultation with more notice
A longer consultation and over the holiday period. These plans are not new.
Listen to us. Don't make this just a shop window exercise in "democracy". Listen
As previous answer.
Be more transparent
None identified
As I have said above, I have only just found out about this consultation at the last minute. I have received nothing personally to alert me to the consultation so this does not feel at all like a genuine opportunity to give informed views. At the very least a letter or email should go to all households and there should be a opportunity to find out more at local meetings.
It would be easier to respond to particular issues/aspects of Council Provision with targeted information gathering and information sheets before soliciting residents' opinions
This consultation form is horribly designed. You can only see one line at a time of what you are typing. It seems deliberately designed to put people off filling it in. And the consultation period is much too short, giving that it included the Christmas holidays. A more cynical person than me would think that it was arranged that way on purpose!
This form was not that usable - see Q2 in particular Please send consultations with longer notice time. Also, I think councils in London and England should learn from past lessons. Apparently last time a similar approach was taken in Barney in 2017 the user figures collapsed from 187,000 active users to 20,000 within two years. Finally, please make the interface for the survey available on computer more user friendly by giving the option to write longer texts (as in Q1). Thanks
Answer questions posed in writing and addressed to named employees.
Ensure you spell out all acronyms (eg MTFS), give examples with aspects of budget, say, adult social care or children's services in clear and user-tested language that people can understand. I doubt very much that an average (if there is such a thing) would understand what is mean by 'strength-based working'.
Hosting in person discussions (perhaps at the library!) where the local community can all have a say

You keep presenting budget custs as improvements which is really a joke.
More open meetings
I will
Explain to residents how they can campaign against central government cuts to local budgets which are terribly unfair on Haringey as a deprived outer London borough
Provide a clearer view of your proposals and make it more readily available to residents.
Yes, briefer emails and less details
This participation process has been really bad and lacking in new ideas - it is poor in presentation, timetable and range of consultation methods. There are so many innnovative ways to consult being used across Europe.
Perhaps combining consultation with a community offer- such as an exercise/wellbeing event.
In my experience the Council just goes through the motions of consultation and takes no notice of any opposition to any of its plans. My suggestion, therefore, is for councillors and the Borough's staff to remember for whom they work and stop being arrogant and high handed. This may encourage more fruitful interaction.
If you want people to engage, don't put out consultations over a holiday period!
A Longer consultation with more notice please!!
Do not follow this format!
It was impossible to find the appropriate forms in any part of the central WOOD GREEN library building yesterday. I was advised to go online.
Longer time frames
This layout and interface are awful - I haven't been able to properly construct my answers because I can't properly see that I'm typing.
o Any reductions should be planned and not imposed at short notice. o If the Council proceeds with the cuts which it is proposing without proper consultation and consideration of the long-term negative impacts of what this will entail, we would consider lodging a complaint with the DCMS under s.10 of the 1964 Act and pursuing appropriate remedies with reference to the 2010 Act. We understand The Library Campaign (TLC) is already doing the same. o However, we as Friends of Muswell Hill Library would prefer for this not to happen and we'd welcome the opportunity to continue to work with the Council to develop proposals which meet the needs of our local community. We propose this approach rather than being required at very short notice, over a holiday period, to respond to proposals from the Council into which we have had no input.
Reach out to people who because of their business experience will have experience of cost cutting and how to do it. As a middle manager I was involved in several phases of this and I would suggest that the standard budget review process should ALWAYS be tight.
Please provide the information with a longer amount of time for residents to thoroughly read it.
Better use of online contact with council tax payers. Keeping residents informed.
Send out newsletter to those in the borough
Please provide us all with a longer consultation period. We haven't had any time to gather our thoughts and feels very one sided and unfair.
A longer consultation with more notice.
Look at what Central London Forward members are already doing which works and roll out? Work out a basis for more specialised resident input (ie on different service areas).
What Haringey Deal is that? Clearly written proposals, easier to use forms, asking a much wider range of groups to contribute - for SEND services and children's services, this could include consultations at schools and groups for parents and for children. For libraries, this could include reading groups, chess groups, through schools, inviting people who come to use computers or to study to come to a discussion at the library at a suitable time.

give longer consultation periods, not rushed in hoping no-one will notice, and actually listen to what people are telling you.
Local meetings with councillors?
Prioritisation of issues which can be weighted in turning it into.a budget plus local feedback meetings.
Have a longer consulation period - not over Christmas and New Year! And a series of public meeting to explain the proposals in detail and answer questions.
Libraries should be the last thing to be cut.
I heard about this via word of mouth, communication from the council directly feels non-existent.
Social media can be very effective - for example posts on X and/or local Facebook groups, which many councillors are members of Consultations which are easier to access and with realistic timescales ie not primarily over the Christmas/New Year period.
Engage, engage, engage - there is so much happening on the ground in Haringey. Small groups are working to tackle the cost of living crisis, the crises of nature loss and climate change. We all need to come together to find fairer, more inclusive ways forward. Libraries reach into communities in ways that council officials often cannot. They are a gateway, not an obstacle to the future we all need to see. Please - no more libarary cuts.
Don't defund libraries
A longer period of consultation not in a holiday period and using a more user-friendly website.
Better promotion and offer more time for residents to respond and not over Christmas.
More concise summaries eg lists
Consultation should be longer and not stretch over the long Christmas holiday. The website must be much more user-friendly.
1) You need an overall statement of strategy. What are the key principle priorities. 2. You ought to stop using victim language i.e. the first sentence of the leader "extremely challenging" this "underfunding". Victim language is culturally endemic. You are a successful multi service, multi cultural organisation - there's no need to give a sense of beleaguered negativity.
A bigger budget split into terms of seasons and months.
A council needs to be run by people who want to make improvements and not as a job for life. There has been a large increase in slow, excuse making and generally a lack of focus for the public. Tottenham Leisure Centre prime example.
above on elderly
All of the above mentioned with easy access
Councils need more power to do tax, more local governance (decentralisation) needed.
Cuts to front line staff (eg library staff and opening hours) is short sighted. As a start up business, libraries have provided space for me to develop my business in Haringey. Without the libraries i would have moved my business elsewhere.
Cuts to library services are short-sighted in the extreme. There are services that not only support education in outcomes
Cutting LIBRARY BUDGETS cannot be the answer
Don't touch culture! No point investing a lot of money in anti-terrorism measures and cutting the culture resources:

these are the ones that will make the community a safer place, with people connecting in safe spaces developing their education through the free resources that libraries provide.
I am pleased at the push to try and get people out of temporary housing. I'd like to see more on greening the borough. Ally Pally gets a disproportionate amount of new capital funding.
I appreciate the complexity of setting a budget and I hope the council will be able to avoid redundancies whilst keeping libraries as a place of 'human' contact for all.
I cannot understand your budget consultation document as it is too technical
I do not like the street tree payment system which reinforces gap between rich and less well off parts of the borough
I don't know much about what's happening in Haringey itself.
I don't think so. I'm grateful to those close to councillors or work for the council, the council when motivated by economic or social justice and improving quality of life for all. Thank you.
I think that we as residents deserve a proper consultation before you take short term actions which will inevitably start up longer-term problems for the future
I would like to see support of other community initiatives, particularly community gardens, which i believe will promote wellbeing and improve mental and physical health in borough.
Leave the library as it is Libraries are a vital service for children, parents and the elderly. Self service libraries will not be safe. We need skilled librarians in our libraries please. Their knowledge cannot be replaced by CCTV
Libraries are incredibly important for healthy societies, for poorer, less advantaged childrens access to learning and self development. Lots of people dont access to books, money to buy them, access to education and use libraries for self development Our staff are knowledgeable, welcoming and irreplaceable. Our library will turn into a soulless CCTV zone with these cuts and may close down
Libraries should be #1
Location of books in centralised areas reduce space, time and staff. Implement devise for collection.
Please consider the noise on non-restricted streets. It is unbearable and unsafe.
Please continue to value libraries + their role in the community. My library (Stroud Green) is very welcoming + friendly to all.
Please don't reduce the libraries time as people have diffrient need's eg uninplod, school children, eldly, retied and working people.
Please dont take away our library it's not for the greater good surely
PLEASE KEEP FUNDING THE LIBRARIES AS YOU DO NOW! ALTERNATIVE WAY OF RAISING FUNDS CAN BE FOUND - LIBRARIES CAN BECOME MORE + BETTER UTILISED COMMUNITY HUBS FOR DIFFERENT PEOPLE.
Please keep our libraries open and staff hours for longer period of time. If the library does not have encouraging and helpful staff or young children's story /craft session that are so valuable in nurturing a love of reading, I will have serious concern about the facilities not being safe for children if not started/toilets not open/not maintained in the same ways as currently PROTECT LIBRARIES!!
PROTECT OUR CHILDREN'S FUTURES WITH THEIR LIBRARIES AND SCHOOLS. You need to better represent us all.
Residents who are old, no longer working and are living together, their annual income when accessed together should not be over £16500, if they will not receive any benefit whatsoever. my wife and i are victims of such disproportionate practice we are paying thousands in bills because we are allowed any benefit. We are british citizens and live in Tottenham.

Appendix 8

Q8 We want to continue to find new and engaging ways to give residents a genuine opportunity to offer informed views on future budget proposals, in line with the Haringey Deal. Please let us know any suggestions you have for how we can do this in the future.

Sale any older property to build up new ones for renting.
Save our libraries!
Self-service is not the way forward. It may seem cheaper and more efficient but it leads to more frustration and lack of social cohesion. Do not replace library staff with machines.
The proposals for libraries are a failure and priorities must be challenged and reassessed. A LIBRARY NEEDS LIBRARIANS!!
This consultation period is too short and should not have been done over the Christmas period.
This country has experienced enough cuts due to Tory gvmnt for many years. We don't need the labour to follow the same but to offer an alternative. This labour led council is very disappointing.
Where is the provision for swimming?? You want provision for greater legal support but the council has ignored legal advice and following legal advice and following this would save costs
Why does Haringey not provide social work support in hospitals? No one will attend MDTs/Family meetings (Islington do, as do Camden, Enfield and Hackney) - it is embarressing
Why have they just put this forward without enough time for the community to have a say. it has been rushed with little time. for a lot of people to reply back. That would affect such a large amount of Residents/ The Govement must keep libraries open. To find the funds to keep libraries open. It vital right.
Why was not more time given to give the public a chance to speak their peace all seems very last minute
You say you will reduce library staff by 40%. People prefer interacting with human staff. I've benefitted from my relationships with library staff in the 20 years I've lived in Crouch End. I've filmed two short features in Hornsey Library. Its now on Imdb that Hornsey Library helped us. People get to know the space and I've brought people from outside the borough to Hornsey
